TOPICAL NEWS

Last week, three political events drove reader engagement with News & Politics to growth of almost a tenth and the second highest weekly page views total ever recorded.

First the resignation by Scottish Nationalist Party leader Humza Yousaf as First Minister of Scotland, then the Blackpool South parliamentary by-election, and finally the mayoral and local elections across England and Wales drove more than 160m page views for the category.

Within the content, Politics increased by +29%, in turn driven by 6.5x higher Elections page views. With a UK general election and the US presidential election looming large in the second half of the year expect further growth for our biggest category.

SEASONAL EVENTS

The early spring bank holiday – the first of two in the month of May – drove expected reader engagement growth with related content across the Ozone platform as online readers sought out ways to spend the extra time off.

With a rise of almost a third, Shopping topped our weekly charts for page views growth and was driven by increased interest in the Grocery Shopping topic, which grew +84% week on week.

Elsewhere, engagement with Events & Attractions content increased by +8% week on week, with 2.5x higher Bank Holidays page views a significant driver. There was also seasonal growth for the Marriage topic, as wedding season continued to hot up, with an increase of almost a half.
